JAKKS Pacific and Skybound Bring Invincible to Life with Collectibles & Tech Accessories, Launching Spring 2028

11/11/26

Collectible figures, statues and tech accessories from the hit animated series arrive in Q1 2028

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Nov. 11, 2026 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- JAKKS Pacific, Inc. (NASDAQ: JAKK), a leading global designer, manufacturer and marketer of toys and consumer products, today announced a new licensing partnership with Skybound, LLC to create a worldwide consumer products program based on the Skybound and Prime Video adult animated series Invincible, spanning collectibles, tech accessories and costumes from Disguise, a JAKKS Pacific company. The multi-year agreement runs through December 31, 2029, with the consumer products launching in Q1 2028.

The program covers categories built for the way fans actually collect. Stylized 2.5"–3" figures bring fun, collectible looks, while screen-accurate 3.75" figures stay true to the series. Collectors get 6"–8" non-articulated, screen-accurate statues made for the shelf, and fans can round things out with phone accessories and other tech items, plus costumes and accessories so they can suit up. Both the 3.75" figures and the phone accessories are new categories for Skybound's Invincible licensing program.

Invincible, based on the comic book series by Robert Kirkman, Cory Walker and Ryan Ottley, follows Mark Grayson, a teenager who inherits his father's superpowers. The series has earned three straight seasons of perfect 100% Rotten Tomatoes scores and back-to-back Emmy nominations. Season 4 aired earlier this year and became the most-watched season of the series to date. Season 5 is currently in production for release next year, with an early Season 6 renewal also recently confirmed.

"Invincible has one of the most passionate fanbases in animation, and they want products that get it right," said Jeremy Sueper, VP of Marketing at JAKKS Pacific. "We're building a line that covers both sides of that: screen-accurate figures and statues for collectors, and a stylized range that's just fun to own. Skybound has been a great partner on the vision for this program, and we can't wait to show fans what we're making."

"Invincible is a global franchise with an incredible fandom that is eager to make the show a part of their everyday lives," said Garima Sharma, VP of Licensing & Partnerships at Skybound Entertainment. "This partnership expands the ways they can do that, from building their collections to accessorizing their phones or dressing as their favorite characters. We're excited to collaborate with Jakks and deliver a range that celebrates the characters and bold personality that make Invincible so distinctive."

Retail partners will be announced at a later date.
